Make room for this pulmonaria - it is one of the best. I am impressed by the good looking foliage during and long after flowering. Long, narrow, pointed foliage with showy silver spots display tubular, violet-blue flowers in May-June. This clump forming plant is ideal as a single specimen or in masses to create a groundcover effect in the front of the perennial border, open woodland garden or rock garden. Grow in rich, moist soil in part shade to part sun. Feed with a liquid or slow release fertilizer. This plant is hardy in zone 4.
