I suggest planting this perennial in your garden as an excellent late summer bloomer. Lance shaped, dark green leaves showcase loose sprays of violet flowers with yellow centers from August to September. The daisy-like flowers attract butterflies and make superb cut flowers in floral arrangements. The upright growth habit of Jim Crockett is more compact than other varieties and does not need staking. It is suitable for planting in perennial borders, cottage gardens, prairie gardens, or in sunny meadows. Grow Jim Crockett in full sun in rich, well-drained soil. It is hardy in Zones 4-9.
