I am a fan and collector of the new fancy leaved coral bells. Green Spice is a fancy leaved variety with fantastic silver coloring, dark gray-green margins, and purple veins. The wiry stems of small, delicate, bell-shaped flowers bloom in a cloud of white from June to July. In fall the foliage turns shades of red and orange. This coral bell is ideal for the front of the perennial border or as edging along winding paths and walkways. It forms neat and tidy mounds in the rock garden or woodland garden. Plant it with other perennials and annuals in mixed containers as a foliage accent. Grow it in part sun to part shade in rich, well-drained soil. It is hardy in Zones 4-9.
