I find Eveline has a rich, rosy-purple flower color, much different from other cultivars. The dense, tapered spikes make exceptional cut flowers and attract butterflies to the garden. Remove the faded flowers for a fresh flush of blooms. This sturdy plant has dark green, lance-shaped foliage that turns a deep purplish-red color in the fall with cooler weather. The upright foliage and flower growth provides lots of color in the perennial border, cottage garden, or meadow garden. Grow this speedwell in full to part sun in average, well-drained soil. It is hardy in Zones 4-8.
