FALL COLOR

I think the foliage of this barberry is delightful as it emerges as a rich burgundy color, turning an intense red-black color in fall. In the spring a beautiful, velvet coating covers the foliage and when beads of water fall onto the leaves they shimmer in the sunlight. I find this handsome shrub has good form and showcases its popularity as an accent, low hedge, or rock garden specimen. In my garden the berries and shrub structure provide a popular habitat for birds. Grow in well-drained soil and full sun for vivid foliage color. Apply a 2-3" layer of mulch or organic material to conserve moisture and improve the soil. Hardy in Zones 4-7.
