I find that Silver Reed Grass is one of the most dramatic ornamental grasses for the landscape! This gracefully arching grass has large, feathery, silvery-white plumes and narrow, dark green blades that are highlighted with a creamy-white stripe. Fall foliage color fades to tan as winter approaches, and the large plumes open in early fall with a strong red tint. This moderate, clumping grower is superb for container gardening, rock gardens, water gardens, specimen planting, screening, or shrub beds. Dramatic texture abounds when planted in large masses and is stunning at the edge of pools or ponds. Grasses are beautiful in both fresh and dried floral arrangements. For fresh bouquets, cut the flowers just before they are completely open. For dried arrangements, the blooms and foliage may be cut in fall and winter. Grows well in almost any type of moist soil. Hardy in Zones 5-9.
