MELINDA MYERS LAUNCHES NATIONALLY SYNDICATED TELEVISION SEGMENTS

Milwaukee, Wis. – March 23, 2007– Nationally known gardening expert, TV host and author Melinda Myers has produced one-minute gardening tips entitled, “Melinda’s Garden Moments,” which will air throughout the growing season on network television stations across the country.

The nationally syndicated segments will help gardeners create a beautiful, healthy garden with ease. The timely “must have” tips will walk people through the growing season, covering subject matter such as jump starting the season, soil testing, soil preparation, frost protection, fertilization, mulching, composting, planting bulbs and more. The segments provide simple step-by-step direction that is useful not only to the beginner gardener, but to those who are more seasoned as well. 26 segments will air weekly throughout the growing season on partner TV stations.

“With so much to do each year in the garden, it can be overwhelming,” explained Myers. “The goal of these segments really is to help gardeners know what to do as the growing season progresses and how to do it, so they can enjoy their garden more and worry about it less.”

Gardening enthusiasts can also watch streaming video of the segments online, on demand on Myers’ web site, www.melindamyers.com. A new gardening tip segment will be added each week throughout the growing season.
