MELINDA'S GARDEN MOMENTS TO AIR ON 50 TV STATIONS IN 2010

April 21, 2010 – Melinda's Garden Moments, one-minute gardening tips produced for local newscasts and hosted by nationally known gardening expert Melinda Myers, will air on 50 network television stations throughout the country this year.

Designed to help gardeners create and maintain a healthy, beautiful garden with ease, the series of 34 segments will air weekly throughout the growing season. Considering the current economic conditions, Myers covers ways people can grow their own food and beautify their gardens and landscapes without spending a lot of money, including topics such as "Maximize your Vegetable Garden," "Big results from Small Gardens - Strategies for Maximizing your Garden Harvest," "Growing a Butterfly-friendly Garden," "Grow Your Own Sprouts and Greens," and "Container Gardens at Home in all areas of the Landscape."

She also covers topics like "Growing fun Healthy Habits - Vegetable Gardening with Kids," that are designed to encourage young gardeners. All of the segments take a very environmentally friendly approach to gardening.

"I want to make gardening fun and encourage all ages to give it a try," explained Myers.

"There are also many benefits to enhancing your landscape besides the pure enjoyment that flowers and trees can bring, including increasing your home value, giving it curb appeal and beautifying our communities. Most of all gardening can be a huge stress-reliever - it connects us with the earth and is good for your soul."
